

Announcement - Call for projects 2022
Primary Prevention and Health Promotion

Improving prevention and developing health promotion is one of the priorities of the new ten-year strategy of the French National Cancer Institute (INCa).

In 2022, the Institute is launching a new call for SHS-E-PH projects to develop research in primary cancer prevention and health promotion. It aims to support excellent and innovative research on these topics, as well as to encourage multidisciplinary projects.

This call will mobilize all disciplines and approaches concerned with:

- the development of knowledge on cancer risk factors and the reduction of exposures;
- the study of health determinants and health-promoting environments.

The call for projects will be published in December 2021, for a closing date of March 2022.

For any questions regarding this call, you may contact: pauouet@institutcancer.fr.